Chapter 347: The Restoration of Life

The battle against The Annihilator had left its mark on the multiverse, but as the dust of destruction settled, Sung Jin-Woo's divine power surged across the realms. His four divine jewels burned with an unmatched brilliance, and the Essence of Eternity thrummed through the very fabric of reality. With a calm and deliberate gesture, Sung Jin-Woo began his work, the very essence of creation bending to his will.

The Restoration of Realms

The realms that had been ravaged by the chaos were vast and varied. Some had been torn apart by dimensional rifts, while others had simply fallen into ruin under the weight of constant battles. But Sung Jin-Woo, with the boundless power of his divine jewels, began to weave his magic. The air around him shimmered as he summoned his divine energy to reshape the very structure of the broken worlds.

Sung Jin-Woo: "Let there be rebirth."

With those words, the lands that had once been consumed by destruction began to shift. Mountains rose from the ashes, rivers flowed where there had been only dry earth, and the skies cleared, revealing a canvas of stars. The Divine Triad's influence spread like a wave, repairing the fabric of each realm, making them whole once more.

Reviving the Fallen

But it was not just the realms that Sung Jin-Woo sought to restore. The bodies of the fallen, those who had perished in the aftermath of countless wars and conflicts, now lay scattered across the realms, forgotten and left to decay. Yet, with the divine energy surging through him, Sung Jin-Woo reached out, and the power of the Essence of Eternity flowed into the remains.

One by one, the bodies began to stir. The lifeless forms rose from the ground, their hearts beating once more, their breath returning to their lungs. The souls of the fallen, once lost in the void, were guided back into their revived bodies, their memories intact, their strength restored. Those who had fought alongside the Divine Triad and their forces were reborn, ready to continue their mission in the realms.

Sung Jin-Woo’s divine energy spread to every corner of the multiverse, bringing life where there had been only death. The souls of the Heavenly Soldiers, the Apostles of God, the Shadowkin, the Dragonkin, and all who had perished in the battle against the forces of darkness were brought back to life.

The Cycle of Rebirth

But the work was not yet finished. With a wave of his hand, Sung Jin-Woo summoned The Divine Cup of Revival—a sacred artifact forged with the power of creation itself. He poured the essence of life into the cup, and as he did, it radiated a powerful light, its aura resonating with the divine forces within the multiverse.

As the cup overflowed with divine energy, the once-dead souls of the realms drank from it, their spirits and bodies now bound by the eternal cycle of rebirth. Through this process, the fallen were not just revived—they were transformed. Their strengths were amplified, their minds sharpened, and their connection to the divine strengthened. Each soul, now empowered by the divine essence, was reborn with a new purpose: to help rebuild the realms, protect their people, and safeguard the multiverse from any future threats.

A New Beginning

As the final remnants of destruction were undone, the realms flourished once again. The lands that had been barren and broken now teemed with life. The air was fresh with the scent of renewal, and the oceans sparkled with clarity. The people of the realms, both divine and mortal, stood united under the banner of the Divine Triad, their faith and strength renewed.

The Divine Beings watched with satisfaction as their worlds came to life once more, their divine powers amplifying the restoration efforts. Each being, from Ashborn to Sung Su-Ho, contributed to the effort, their influence spreading throughout the realms to ensure that the cycle of life would continue uninterrupted.

Sung Jin-Woo’s Resolve

Sung Jin-Woo stood at the center of it all, his wings unfurled and his divine jewels glowing with radiant light. His heart was resolute, knowing that this was only the beginning. The work he had started would take millennia to perfect, but he was prepared to guide the realms with the strength of the Essence of Eternity and the support of his allies.

The fallen had returned, the realms were restored, and the cycle of life had been reestablished. But Sung Jin-Woo knew that peace was a fragile thing. There would always be those who sought to disrupt it, and new threats would inevitably arise. Yet, with the power of creation and the might of the Divine Triad behind him, he was ready to face whatever came next.

Sung Jin-Woo: "Let this new era begin."

And with those words, the heavens above the Absolute Realm trembled, as the threads of fate were rewoven once again. The divine legacy of the Divine Triad would live on, and the multiverse would flourish under their watchful gaze.

To be continued in Chapter 348...